

ACCA and Ethics in Business: event on Global Ethics day 2018

Dear partners,

ACCA (The Association of Chartered Certified Accountants) has teamed up with CFA Institute to celebrate this year's Global Ethics Day (17 October 2018).

To mark this landmark occasion, the organizations will be exploring how businesses are preparing for an ethical future in the face of threats and challenges presented by globalization, technology and human psychology.

As part of the global ACCA series „Follow the sun“ dedicated to discussions about the greatest ethical challenges of today's business environment, we would like to invite you to an event called ACCA and Ethics in Business.

The event will take place on Wednesday, 17 October 2018. On the day, you may expect the following:

- Bruce Gahir, member of the ACCA Global Ethics Council will introduce to us the developments taking place to the ACCA five fundamental principles of ethics and their impact of changes on the business;
- Roundtable discussion with leaders of various organizations from different industry sectors on topics including among others:
 - Ethics in practice from various working environments
 - How businesses are preparing for an ethical future in the face of threats and challenges presented by globalization, technology and human psychology
 - ACCA principals of ethics and their application in real working environment.
